

THE ACME OF VULGARITY.

That Is What a Soiled Silk Is, According to

Skirts with separate linings have returned to replace those in which the lining is sewed in with the seams, as has been the custom for two or three years past. Sometimes the separate lining is made in the form of a distinct skirt, which, when made of silk and prettily trimmed, may be worn with a number of different gowns. It should be as full as the outer dress itself and as carefully fitted. Black is the most generally serviceable. It is a mistake to wear a white silk petticoat except under evening dress, for one hour's wear under a street gown will destroy its beauty and freshness forever, and soiled silk is the sign of vulgarity. Muslin and cambric petticoats are the only admissible white ones for ordinary wear, since they alone can be changed frequently and laundered successfully.

Muslin skirts and other underware are sold at such low prices now that there is no excuse for any woman who has not an ample supply of such garments. It is not essential that they be of fine material or elaborately trimmed, although even the least expensive articles have usually some sort of ornamentation. The main thing is to have plenty of them, keep them in good order and have them well laundered.

Many wealthy women inclined to plumpness buy the plainest underclothing to be found in order to avoid the fluff and fullness that would be caused by trimming. Hand embroidered French goods of extremely plain cut may be obtained at a moderate price and are often worn by large women who prefer some sort of decoration to a perfectly plain finish.

Some of the new articles of neckwear are really charming in effect. One lately seen consisted of a finely jetted round yoke with a standing collar and black gauze. The lower edge of the yoke was cut in several large points and bordered with a full double frill of the satin striped gauze, very finely plaited. The black mousseline de soie, crepe de chine and other thin materials are much employed for these becoming adjuncts and are often combined with tinted or white lace.

A sketch is given of a vest of gold-colored satin trimmed with black guipure. The upper part is plaited into the standing collar, and the material is so shaped as to fall in exquisite. The lower part is confined by curuset pieces of guipure. The middle of the front and the collar are trimmed with narrow guipure.

THE HAPPY PARIS GIRL.

Her Gowns Cost Only Half as Much as the American Woman's.

It is astonishing to note the difference in price between ready-made garments here and abroad. What would seem a very moderate allowance in America will dress a woman well and fashionably in Paris, provided she purchases her apparel already made up and has it altered to suit her figure. The fitter in a Parisian shop can do this to perfection, so that the gown looks as if it were made to order, and the charges are very moderate compared with those to which we are accustomed here. There is one objection to ready-made garments that holds good everywhere—that is, somebody else is sure to have something similar—but as the ambition of a great many women is to "look like other people" this is evidently not universally considered a drawback. Besides a Parisian woman is very clever at adding a bow here and a bit of lace there, which, although but the work of a moment, gives her gown an individuality and distinguishes it as being personal to herself, for no two women will make exactly the same changes or add touches of just the same color.

An American woman who wishes to appear trim and fashionable expects to pay at least $25 for a neat and well-made evening street costume prettily trimmed and altered to fit her. In Paris a walking gown of about the same grade may be obtained for half the money, while evening dresses are equally reasonable in price. It is quite as possible to spend a great deal of money for a gown there as here, but it is not as necessary. Famous Parisian modistes and tailors charge tremendously, but one can dress very well there without employing them, while here a good dressmaker is a rarity at any price except an extravagant one.

An illustration is given of a gown of old rose china silk flowered with black. The bottom of the plain skirt has a narrow ruffle of black gauze headed by a scarf trimming of silk held in place by guipure straps. The round bodice is gathered in at the waist under a pointed collar of black gauze, closing with such ends at the side. Figure jacket fronts of white guipure trim the corsage, and the lacy elbow sleeves terminate in a border of guipure. The hat is of gold-colored straw trimmed with white lace wings and pink flowers.

Eager to Figure as Corpses.

Among the curiosities of taste the Parisian passion for self exhibition at the morgue must hold a conspicuous place. The principal keeper at the morgue is said to have had many applicants from persons eager to figure as corpses on the slabs of the deathhouse. They were deterred by the official announcement that the temperature of the bodies was kept some degrees below zero. If this discomfort could have been endured for 12 hours, and if the authorities could have been persuaded to lend themselves to such a fraud, what materials for a coup in journalism would have been afforded to some enterprising genius—San Francisco Argonaut.

Exchange.

"Can you give me 2 shillings for a shilling?" asked a little boy of a grocer's shopman.

"Certainly," said the man, handing over the 2 shillings.

"Well," said the boy, taking the sixpence and turning to go out, "mother says she will send you the shilling tomorrow."—London Standard.

Do You Use Any of the Following Articles?

If you do, call on us and examine same,

and we know quality and prices will suit you.

Paints and Oil.--By the bark "Nautilus" we have added to our large stocks in this line. Good weather will soon set in and you will want to paint your house, and when you do, use pure paints, not some cheap article that will "peel" or "chalk" off in a few months. Hubbuck's White lead Zinc, and Pale Boiled Oil, have stood the test in these islands for years, and the quality to-day is as good as when it was first introduced. We get these Paints and Oils direct from Hubbuck & Son, and thus know that they are genuine. We also keep Hubbuck's Green, Yellow, Black, Oxide and Mast Color in 25 lb kegs.

Cartridges.--If you use a shot gun we can give you your choice of black or nitro powder cartridges, all carefully loaded. We have a few shells loaded with "Walsrode" powder, a very strong powder that has been adopted for warfare by three great nations (not including the P. G.) It is said to be the most reliable of all smokeless powders and very safe in any well made gun. The charges are in bulk one third of any other powder, and is "guaranteed good for five years in any climate damp or dry."

If you are interested in the numerous Rifle Matches or enjoy target practice either with Rifle or Revolver use U. M. C. cartridges for best results: 50 out of a possible 50 can be made with this brand, provided the rifle, and the man are in good order. We have all sizes of U. M. C. cartridges from 22 to 56 cal.

Everything we have mentioned is to be had for the asking (and a little hard coin) at the old stand on the corner of Fort and King streets.
